

2024 Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award

Nomination deadline: January 5, 2024

The Graduate School is pleased to announce the nomination period for the 2024 Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award. Please share this information with your colleagues.

The Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award honors faculty whose scholarly achievements have brought distinction to Wayne State University's graduate programs. The award alternates annually between the humanities/social sciences and the natural/health sciences. This year's award will be made in the humanities/social sciences.

All graduate faculty members working in academic programs are eligible for nomination by their department chairs. Award criteria include recent distinguished scholarly achievement in research and teaching that has contributed significantly to Wayne State University's graduate programs. The award includes a $5,000 honorarium and a citation, presented at the Academic Recognition Ceremony.

The nomination documents include: the nomination form; the nominee's professional record or curriculum vitae that annotates or highlights (bold, underline) publications and presentations in which a graduate student is listed as co-author; a list of student placements; a nomination letter from the department chair that provides an evaluation of the nominee's credentials and evidence of his/her contributions to the discipline, impact upon the field, the national reputation of the nominee and the nominee's contributions to the graduate program; a letter of endorsement from the dean; and letters of support from three Wayne State University scholars. External letters of support are optional.

The nomination materials should be submitted to the Graduate School via email to k.schramm@wayne.edu by January 5, 2024. Questions should be addressed to Karen Schramm at the Graduate School at k.schramm@wayne.edu. Award recipients will be announced in late February.
